National Geographic Readers: Safari is an educational book that takes readers on a journey through the African savannah. The book is written by Gail Tuchman and is illustrated with stunning photographs.

The book begins with a brief to the African savannah. Tuchman describes the savannah as a "vast, grassy plain that stretches across Africa." She explains that the savannah is home to a wide variety of animals, including lions, elephants, zebras, and giraffes.

The rest of the book is divided into chapters, each of which focuses on a different animal. Tuchman provides detailed information about each animal's habitat, diet, and behavior. She also includes interesting facts and anecdotes about each animal.

For example, in the chapter on lions, Tuchman explains that lions are the largest cats in the world. She also describes the lion's hunting habits and social structure. In the chapter on elephants, Tuchman explains that elephants are the largest land animals on Earth. She also describes the elephant's intelligence and social behavior.

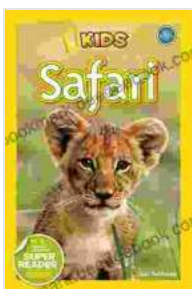

National Geographic Readers: Safari is a beautifully illustrated and informative book that is perfect for young readers who are interested in learning about the African savannah and its animals.
